List Constructors
When given two lists...

While it appears that list constructors `adjoin` and `append` modify (i.e., stretch) the second input list, they don’t change their input lists at all. Instead, they return a new structure.

Adjoin takes exactly 2 arguments while `append` and `list` take as many arguments as you want.